BartonPartners Names New Firm Partner

Norristown, PA – November 16, 2007 – BartonPartners is delighted to announce the naming of Robert W. Cogan, AIA as Partner in the firm.

“Bob is a tremendous asset to BartonPartners,” said Thomas Barton, III, AIA, owner and principal for the firm. “His creativity and talent reinforce the capabilities of the firm, and we’re delighted that he is becoming a partner.”

Mr. Cogan has been with BartonPartners since 2004. He oversees projects from schematic design to construction administration, with a concentration in single- and multi-family homes, mid-rise buildings, active adult housing, transit-oriented, mixed-use, and continuing-care retirement communities.

He has 22 years of experience in custom and single-family homes, speculative office buildings, Jersey Shore communities, and traditional neighborhood developments, as well as an extensive background in wood-frame construction. Bob's upscale designs have won numerous awards including "Built-to Suit Custom Home of the Year" and "Community of the Year." Mr. Cogan received his Bachelor of Architecture from Virginia Tech in 1982.

About the Firm:

BartonPartners is a full-service integrated architecture and planning firm with a staff of more than fifty architects, planners, and landscape architects. Founded in 1990, the practice originated in residential development in the Middle Atlantic region, and has evolved to include mixed-use and commercial design, adaptive reuse and rehabilitation of existing structures, single- and multi-family projects including rental and low- to moderate income housing, 50+ lifestyle communities, transit-oriented design, and urban infill development throughout the United States.
